The Polk State College Baseball Program is eager to start the 2011 school year and baseball season. The student athletes have been working hard, and are ready to excel in the classroom and on the ball field. The Polk State College Baseball Program has been fortunate to retain a few of the County's top recruits and will be bringing in many other highly-touted prospects throughout the Southeast. PSC hopes to have one of the premier baseball programs in both Florida and the Country.

The PSC Baseball Program has undergone a number of changes over the summer, including the retirement of legendary Coach, Joe Arnold. His retirement lead to the hiring of new Head Coach Al Corbeil, formerly with Florida Southern College, as well as assistant coaches Collin Martin and Brad Cook, also from Florida Southern College. In addition, the baseball facilities are currently receiving numerous renovations throughout the locker room, batting cages, and on the spectators' sports deck. There are also plans to continue upgrading other areas in and around the ball-park in the near future .

Polk County's business and community members are at the heart of the Baseball Program's ultimate success. Polk County's need for a well-educated workforce is only the beginning of this partnership, which includes career opportunities and support for student athletes and PSC programs, both of which are provided by business and community members.

The Polk State College Baseball Program is reaching out to local businesses within the community for partnerships. Currently, several fundraising events have been planned for the near future, as well as numerous advertising opportunities for businesses.

A partnership with the PSC Baseball Program will allow the team to remain competitive, not only within the conference, but also at the State and national levels. The aim is to bring in the most talented student athletes in Polk County and the Southeast. The efforts of donors assist the team on the playing field and enrich their educational experiences. As today's athletes become tomorrow's community and business leaders, the recognition they receive for their talents and skills on and off the field are solid memories for a lifetime. We look forward to partnering with you in order to help our athletes achieve their goals.
