

Empowerments for Student Learning

Exclusively for Adjuncts

Honoring learner-centered teaching activities and supportive teaching environments in a changing paradigm of higher education

Expand your knowledge. Broaden your resources. Spark students' inspiration.

Volume 2. Issue1

Now that instructors and students have been introduced to one another by name, it is a good time to begin activities to promote relationships in class. These relationships span from professor to student, student to professor, and student to student. The classroom transforms into a community of learners. This tip serves as a way for students become more comfortable in sharing opinions, ideas, facts, and develops camaraderie.

Personal Scavenger Hunt

Take five minutes and find the following items in your wallet, purse, backpack or notebook.

- you've had a long time.
- you're proud of.
- reveals a lot about you.
- reminds you of a fun time.
- Concerns or worries you.

Students can be placed in large groups 5-7 or share as a whole class activity.
