The purpose of this rule is to implement as Board Policy the requirements of FS 1006.53.

1. The religious observances, practices, and beliefs of individual students will be accommodated with regard to admissions, class attendance, and scheduling of examinations and work assignments at Polk State College.
2. Religious observances, practices, or beliefs of individuals will not be a consideration with regard to admissions policy and procedure.
3. Students are expected to attend class regularly and are responsible for all work assignments and examinations in accordance with policies distributed by each professor. Such class policies must allow students to make up work missed because of participation in religious observances, practices and beliefs, provided that the student gives the professor reasonable notice at least one week prior to an intended religious observance.
4. Students who believe that they have been unreasonably denied an educational benefit by a professor due to their religious observances, beliefs, or practices may appeal to the professor's academic dean. If the matter is not resolved at that level, appeal may be made to the Petitions Committee which recommends final action. The action of the Petition Committee is final.
