

2015 FOOD TRUCK RALLY

Munn Park Historical District

September 10, 2015

About the Rally

On September 10th, many high school and college students gathered at Munn Park to attend the monthly food truck rally. Most of the people who attended were men and women in their mid-twenties, but if you looked hard enough, you could find multiple Collegiate students there – like diamonds in the rough. Our school's students could be found in the grass in front of the stage, where multiple people decided to cover different songs to entertain those who attended the rally.

Our students could also be found in line for some of the many food trucks that were lined up around the park, including The Bacon Boss, Bem Bom Food, Treehouse Truck, Trucktoberfest and many more. Although the lines were extremely long, many people were willing to wait for the hot and fresh foods so that they could sit with their friends, kick back, and chill out while eating their gyros. When asked how they found out about the food truck rally, many students revealed that they either saw flyers around the school, or they heard about it through friends. A few highlights, as pointed out by many students, were the delicious foods, such as the Philly cheesesteaks and the mushroom and Swiss burgers and the entertainment. "My favorite food that was offered was the Philly cheesesteak," mutters Collegiate Junior, Trevor Sweeney. We hope to catch you at the next rally on October 8th!

"My favorite part of Food Truck Rally was hanging out with my friends and listening to the performances."

- Emily Moore

Juniors Jennifer Carr (left) and Emily Moore kick back and relax at the rally.

Popular songs were covered by many people who attended the rally.